

Valley Structures and Hunter Valley Structural Detailing Announce Partnership

UK based Valley Structures and Australian based Hunter Valley Structural Detailing are pleased to announce a new partnership between the two companies. The new partnership means that both companies will now have increased capacity by sharing resources and the ability to detail 24 hours a day on one project. Both companies will continue to provide a first-class service to their current clients and hope to grow their client database in the UK, Europe and Australasia.

“This new partnership is a win win situation for both Valley Structures and Hunter Valley. With both companies having experience in the others market, giving us increased capacity, it is great news for everyone especially our clients. We can potentially accelerate programmes with the capability of 24-hour detailing using Tekla Model Share. Even though we are over 10,000 miles apart, modern technology makes us closer than ever”

– Simon Ambler & James Ellis, Directors of Valley Structures

“These are exciting times that lie ahead for both companies, we look forward to introducing a new, more efficient service with the same high-quality detailing for new and existing clients. The unity of both companies, that have individually excelled within their own countries, will certainly create a major player in the ever-changing world of structural steel detailing” – Jeremy Little, Director of Hunter Valley Structural Detailing
